CAMBODIA: Rice exports surpass 630,000 tones in H1

Cambodia exported 630,319 tons of milled rice to foreign markets in the first half of this year, a year-on-year increase of 63 % from 387,070 tons in the same period last year, the Cambodia Rice Federation (CRF) report showed on Wednesday. The commodity exported earned over $367 million, an increase of 29.5 % year-on-year from $283 million in the first six months of 2025. The milled rice was export to 64 countries and regions, in the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), China, and the European Union. ASEAN nations imported a cumulative 208,593 tons of Cambodia's milled rice, or 33 % of the total export and 162,125 tones were export to China, accounting for 25.7 %, during the period, read the report. The EU nations imported 154,254 tons, or 24 % of the total, while 43,940 tones were ship to other destinations, including countries in Africa, the Middle East, the United States, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand. CRF President Lay Chhun Hour attributed the exceptional growth to the increasing global demand for Cambodian rice and reinforced the investment case for downstream processing. "The main driver of strong export momentum is that Cambodia has a large surplus of rice from domestic consumption for processing and export, while foreign markets have high demand, especially in existing markets such as the Philippines, China and the EU bloc," Chhun Hour told Khmer Times. Fragrant rice continued to dominate rice exports, accounting for 59.81 % of total milled rice shipments during the period. Cambodia has set an ambitious goal to export 1 million tons of milled rice to international markets.

CAMBODIA: Cambodia sees large factories increase to nearly 3,300

Cambodia's industrial sector continued to demonstrate strong growth momentum, with the number of large-scale factories in the Kingdom rising to 3,284 as of the end of May 2026, according to a report released by the Ministry of Industry, Science, Technology and Innovation (MISTI) on Saturday. The latest figures highlight sustained investment inflows and employment expansion, reinforcing the industrial sector's role as a key pillar supporting Cambodia's economic growth. According to MISTI, the Kingdom had 3,284 operating factories by the end of May 2026, employing more than 1.33 million workers and attracting cumulative investment capital exceeding $27.6 billion. The number of large factories increased by 5.35 % from 3,084 recorded at the end of 2025, reflecting continued confidence among investors in Cambodia is manufacturing sector. Speaking at the Asia Prestige 50 Under 50 CEO Excellence Award 2026 on Friday, Minister of Industry, Science, Technology and Innovation Hem Vanndy said Cambodia remains open for business and continues to welcome long-term investment partnerships. "Investor confidence is reflected in the increased investment projects and continued expansion of existing manufacturers, citing the launch of Toyota's new Hilux Travo assembly line the previous day as a strong vote of confidence in Cambodia's long-term potential," Vanndy said. The minister also encouraged Cambodian and international companies to invest in supporting industries and work with local SMEs, which are increasingly ready to become reliable partners in global supply chains. Anthony Galliano, Honorary Board Advisor of the Association of Global Entrepreneur 1% Club, said Cambodia's growing investment appeal reflects its transition toward higher-value industries. "The continued innovation and competitiveness will be key to advancing further up the global value chain," Galliano said at the event. The manufacturing landscape remains largely driven by garments, footwear, and travel goods, though the government has increasingly pushed for diversification into electronic components and higher-value assembly. The Cambodia Chamber of Commerce welcomed the data, noting that the steady surge in factory openings is a direct reflection of Cambodia's competitive investment policies. "The increase in factory numbers reflects continued investment inflows and supports Cambodia's position as an attractive manufacturing destination," its Vice-President Heng told Khmer Times. The government has also reaffirmed its commitment to improving the industrial ecosystem by strengthening technical standards, enhancing risk management systems and promoting cleaner energy practices aimed at protecting workers while maintaining Cambodia's competitiveness in global markets.

CAMBODIA: Cambodia and Germany Expand Partnership to Boost Sustainable Garment Sector

Heng Sour, Minister of Labour and Vocational Training, and Christof Weigelmeier, Deputy Head of Mission and Head of Development Cooperation at the German Embassy in Cambodia, witnessed the signing of an agreement to implement the Sustainable Textile Industry in Cambodia Phase II (FABRIC Cambodia II) project on July 6, 2026. The agreement, signed between the Ministry of Labor and Vocational Training, the Ministry of Economy and Finance and the German Agency for International Cooperation (GIZ), aims to promote sustainable supply chains and strengthen compliance with social and environmental standards through closer collaboration between the public and private sectors. Speaking at the signing ceremony, Sour expressed his gratitude to the German government for its continued support of Cambodia's garment, footwear and travel goods (GFT) sector. He said the agreement reflected Germany's strong commitment to supporting Cambodia, particularly its workers, and represented more than just a technical cooperation project. "It is a testament to our shared commitment to turning common goals into concrete actions that deliver tangible benefits for workers, enterprises and the Cambodian economy," he said. Sour highlighted the achievements of the project's first phase, noting that the GFT sector remains a key driver of Cambodia's economic growth, exports, employment and social development. However, he said the industry is undergoing significant transformation as global markets place greater emphasis on environmental sustainability, labor standards and responsible business practices. He added that promoting decent work; productivity, environmental sustainability and effective law enforcement are among the government's priorities under the Pentagon Strategy Phase I and the Cambodia Garment, Footwear and Travel Goods Sector Development Strategy 2022-2027. Sour also praised GIZ's long-term partnership with Cambodia, saying its support extends beyond funding to include knowledge sharing, institutional strengthening, policy dialogue and capacity building. These efforts have helped improve labor inspections, occupational safety and health, responsible business practices and workforce development, while preparing Cambodia to meet emerging international standards. He said the ministry would continue strengthening occupational safety and health measures, promoting digitalization and enhancing readiness to comply with international frameworks such as Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) standards and Human Rights and Environmental Due Diligence (HREDD). Sour added that the project's success depends on close cooperation among government institutions, employers, workers' organizations, development partners, civil society and international brands. He expressed confidence that the second phase would help improve working conditions, strengthen environmental sustainability, promote responsible business conduct and ensure the GFT sector remains competitive and resilient in the global market.

CAMBODIA: Cambodia steps up efforts to establish agro-industrial parks

Cambodia, with support from the Australian government, is taking further steps towards establishing agro-industrial parks, following a meeting between stakeholders to discuss the implementation mechanism of the approved Agro-Industrial Parks Development Framework. The move was highlight in a meeting on Monday between the Cambodian Investment Board of the Council for the Development of Cambodia (CIB/CDC) and the working group from the Ministry of Economy and Finance (MEF), alongside representatives of the Cambodia-Australia Partnership for Resilient Economic Development (CAPRED) and the Australian Embassy in Cambodia. CIB Secretary General Chea Vuthy discussed the preparation for the framework implementation mechanism with a delegation led by Ros Seilava, Secretary of State of MEF, member of the Supreme National Economic Council (SNEC), and Chairman of the Agro-Industrial Park Steering Committee. According to a news statement from the Australian Embassy in Phnom Penh, the park will increase Cambodia's agricultural value-added products and exports, reducing exports of raw agricultural products. The statement added that it is expected to contribute $5.1 billion to the Cambodian economy by 2045 and create up to 100,000 jobs for the locals, over half of which will be for women. According to a CIB press statement, the parks will play an important role in promoting the development of agriculture and agro-industry in the medium- and long-term. They will also contribute to solving the challenges of the agricultural sector by attracting private investment to promote agricultural processing, aiming to increase the added value of this sector to support the national economic growth, the statement added. To successfully attract investment in agro-industrial parks, a clear institutional mechanism is need to effectively guide, coordinate and manage special incentives and provide strategic direction for the development of the parks, it emphasized. Based on this framework, the CDC is assign the role of a single-entry mechanism for managing private investment and special economic zones, including agro-industrial parks, which are registered as qualified investment projects (QIPs) and receive incentives as stipulated in the Law on Investment of Cambodia and other additional incentives offered exclusively for QIPs by the CDC. It should be recalled that following a feasibility study on the establishment of agro-industrial parks in Cambodia, showing that the country has the potential to establish agro-industrial parks from both the demand and supply perspective, the framework was then prepared by the SNEC with support from the Australian government through the CAPRED programmed, and approved by Prime Minister Hun Manet on May 29.

CAMBODIA: Cambodia welcomes Japan's continued investment commitment

Permanent Deputy Prime Minister and Minister in Charge of the Office of the Council of Ministers (OCM) Vongsey Vissoth has welcomed Japan's continued commitment to promoting investment in Cambodia, as both countries pledged closer cooperation to combat online scams and further strengthen their Comprehensive Strategic Partnership. Vissoth made the remarks on Tuesday during a farewell courtesy call by Japanese Ambassador to Cambodia Ueno Atsushi, who is concluding his diplomatic mission in the Kingdom, according to the news statement of the OCM. During the meeting, Vissoth described Ambassador Ueno as a close friend of Cambodia and expressed deep appreciation for his significant contribution to strengthening bilateral ties, culminating in the elevation of Cambodia-Japan relations to a Comprehensive Strategic Partnership. He also thanked the Japanese government and people for their decades of support, from peacebuilding and post-conflict reconstruction to Cambodia's sustainable socio-economic development. Highlighting Japan's valuable assistance to the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia, legal reform initiatives, and institutional cooperation with the OCM, which he said have supported Cambodia's long-term development, Vissoth said, "I highly appreciate the ambassador's efforts in attracting and facilitating Japanese investors to Cambodia, particularly through recent investment promotion activities in Kampong Thom province, as well as his support in arranging my official visit to Japan in 2025." On his part, Ambassador Ueno thanked Vissoth for his close cooperation and support throughout his diplomatic posting in Cambodia and praised his role in deepening Cambodia-Japan relations and advancing bilateral projects, including the Cambodia-Japan Digital Manufacturing Center (CJDM). The ambassador also reaffirmed Japan's support for Cambodia's use of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS) as an international mechanism for addressing border issues and said Japan would continue assisting Cambodia on border-related matters. He said Japan would continue encouraging Japanese companies to invest in Cambodia despite concerns raised by some investors over online fraud operations. Japan is pleased to cooperate with Cambodia in combating online frauds and views the issue as a regional challenge affecting all countries, not Cambodia alone. In response, Vissoth noted that the Cambodia-Thailand border issue is a long-term structural matter that requires patience and peaceful resolution in accordance with international law and existing bilateral agreements. On online frauds, he stressed that cyber fraud is a transnational crime and that Cambodia is itself a victim of international criminal networks. "The Royal Government of Cambodia is firmly committed to eradicating this crime through strict and decisive measures to protect the country's reputation and dignity. Cambodia is also strengthening cooperation with friendly countries and all relevant stakeholders because this is a global challenge that cannot be tackled by any country alone," Vissoth said. Vissoth expressed confidence that Ambassador Ueno, in his new role as Japan's ambassador to Indonesia, would continue contributing to stronger Cambodia-Japan relations in both bilateral and multilateral frameworks, promoting peace, sustainable development and share prosperity for the region and the world. It may be recall that last week President of the National Assembly (NA) Khuon Sudary received a farewell courtesy call from Ambassador Ueno at the NA Palace. Sudary noted that his tenure had significantly strengthened the Cambodia-Japan Comprehensive Strategic Partnership, particularly through political dialogue, economic cooperation, and people-to-people ties. "Bilateral trade surpassed $2.5 billion in 2025, while Japan remains one of Cambodia's leading investors, with cumulative investments of approximately $2.9 billion since 1994," said Sudary. She also highlighted growing people-to-people exchanges, including around 69,000 Cambodian skilled workers in Japan and Japan's long-standing scholarship programmed for Cambodian students. Reflecting on his tenure, Ambassador Ueno said he had visited every province and capital, gaining a deep appreciation for Cambodia's rich cultural heritage, remarkable development, natural beauty, and the hospitality of its people.
